About Aegon Center for Longevity and Retirement (ACLR)

ACLR is a collaboration of experts from Aegon’s businesses in Europe, the Americas, and Asia as well as third-party experts. ACLR, based in the Netherlands, works in close collaboration with the Instituto de Longevidade Mongeral Aegon in Brazil and US-based Transamerica Institute, a nonprofit, private foundation that includes Transamerica Center for Retirement Studies and Transamerica Center for Health Studies. The Transamerica Institute has been conducting research on retirement, health and aging in the United States for more than a decade. Population aging is one of the most important trends facing Aegon, the financial services industry, and society today. ACLR has been established to demonstrate the company’s commitment in the field of aging and retirement research.

Mission

Conducting research

Educating the public

Informing a global dialogue

Conducting research

- Aegon has been conducting research on people’s readiness for retirement, longevity, and population aging since 2012. The Aegon Retirement Readiness Survey is one of the largest surveys of its kind in the world.
- ACLR partners with respected organizations to strengthen its research and outreach capabilities. Partners include the OECD, the Global Coalition on Aging and the Leyden Academy on Vitality and Ageing.

Educating the public

- ACLR publishes the Annual Aegon Retirement Readiness Survey flagship report, as well as thematic reports, articles and white papers.
- ACLR produces video content to bring research to life and share it on social media.
- ACLR’s infographic series complements the reports by making the stories more visual, interactive and shareable.
- Aegon offers a variety of tools & calculators to help people navigate through the complex world of retirement planning.

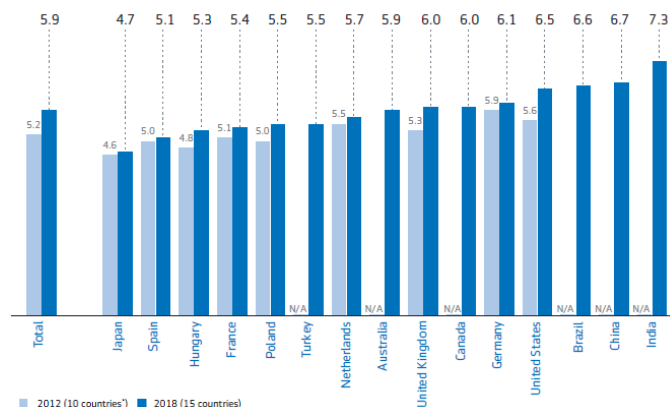

Informing a global dialogue

- ACLR talks about retirement readiness and issues affecting aging populations at events such as the OECD Forum.

*Oleksiy Rachok,
 Aegon’s Global Head of Strategy:
 “ACLR provides us with insights on retirement readiness and healthy aging, and helps us to put the needs of our customers at the core of our strategy.”*

Aegon Retirement Readiness Index

As part of its retirement research, ACLR calculates the Aegon Retirement Readiness Index (ARRI). It assesses how well workers view their level of retirement preparedness. In 2018, the ARRI score was 5.9. This is only a slight increase on the 5.2 achieved in 2012, underlining how much work needs to be done.
